Those who read the article in the Democrat on arbitrary arrests need no reply to the quibblings of the Journal. Neither the President nor any one else has the shadow of right to arrest or hold in duress any man, except according to law, in States or localities where war does not exist. This was explained in the Democrat, so that nobody misuaderstood it, except the editor of the Journal. The case is very different within the lines of an army in the presence of the enemy in force. The conduct of Wilkison at Orleans, and of Jackson at the same place, were approved by the country. We shall not blame Abraham Lincoln nor any of his Generals who follow these not cripple the efforts of any General in the field to see to the safety of his army in the exempt from confiscation, with the exception of such as may become book in the target of law, private property on land is exempt from confiscation, with the exception presence of danger. We believe this is a beliggerent right that is not in dispute. It lasts whilst the danger lasts, and is measured by the extent of the danger. There may be cases that are questionable as to whether they could be a supported by the case of an absolute and unqualified conquest of the enemy's country. be justified by any concession of this belligerent right. It is a dangerous power to be admitted at all, and there are cases to which Amy Warwick (Law Reporter, June, 1863, p. the principle has no application at all. The 498), the right to confiscate the property of the lines of an army in the presence of an at sea, without regard to the question of the disputed ground, resolved what is beyond nied that his decision countenanced the conhabeas cornus, and the declaration of martial law in States where war does not exist, is un- confiscate such property by any legislation it warranted: it subordinates the civil to the military rule, and tends to subvert free government. But when arrests were made in States where war did not exist we said nothing about them. There are things done now that we don't think it worth while to say anything about. But we have said, perhaps, more than is needed. The Journal will quibble on, no doubt. If it has any position on these subjects the public does not know it, and we don't think the editor knows it himself. Our foreign relations are now more ominous, as we have suggested, than at any ether time since the opening of the rebellion. The Emperor Napoleon, who is as much master of Europe, or more, by diplomacy, than his uncle ever was by the sword, has gathered about him, by treaty or otherwise, the whole power of Europe, with the exception of Prus-sia and Russia, the Sclavonic powers of the snorth. He holds England by her fears, and snakes her the supple instrument in his wily hands. He commands Austria by an offer of port of armies, or as an indemnity for exstrike. It is more than probable that this great Machiavel, this man whose manifest destiny is perfect diplomacy, has, under the skillful and adroit teaching of Slidell and Mason, already prepared an alliance offensive and dofensive with the rebel Confederacy. His Mexcan success is a parallel with his Italian campaign. When he turned his back upon the gave a part of Italy to the Italians, and gave Savoy to France-Savoy that for two centuries France has claimed. He breaks with America in a cooler and politer way than with Austria, but equally significant. He fights in Mexico as he fought in Italy, and Savoy was given to him as the Southern Confederacy gives him Texas, He is the "nephew of his uncle" in a higher sense than Victor Hugo's sneer and satire ever meant He knows how to divide and destroy; to gain the West filled with 'barbaric gold and gems,' was his aim, and that, with his genius and his soldiership, and more than all, his French legions, is what we will have to contend against to preserve the Union. Is there—has there ever been, any question that by the law of war the property, both of enemies and friends, may be taken when needed— and is it not needed whenever, taken, it helps us or hurts the enemy? Armies, the world over, destroy enemies' property when they cannot use it, and even destroy their own to keep it from the enemy. Civilized belligerents do all in their power to help themselves or hurt the enemy, except a few things regarded as barbarous or cruel. > CRIME IN ENGLAND .-- The latest official staistics of crime in England more than confirm the terrible record given in Mr. Kay's book on the social condition of the English poor. Of the persons who passed through the English prisons in the twelvemonth ending at Michaelmas last, the returns show that no less than four thousand and fifty three had been in prison above ten times before; four years ago six. Last year there were in London

It was recently stated in Parliament, by Mr. Cox, that one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven cases of infanticide occurred in England and Wales from January, 1861, to July, 1862. Mr. Cox remarked:

This was certainly no credit to our boasted civilization. Be did not think that the most obvious motive, namely, a desire on the part of the mothers of illegitimate children to get rid of the cyldence of their shame, operated so widely as might be thought, because a majority of the children murdered were upwards of a year old. He believed, however, that the bastardy laws were in fault, for the allowance of two shillings six pence was not sufficient to support an infant, and boards of guardians were unable to assist women to recover even that. Another fertile source of child murder was, that coroners' juries would not bring in verdicts of child-murder it they could by any possibility avoid it. The ques-tion he had to put to the right honorable genwhether, during the recess, he would take the subject into consideration and suggest any means whereby a remedy might be applied to the cult row systing.

DR. JOHN BULL'S COMPOUND

No MAN'S NAME IS MORE INTIMATELY CONnected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a pioneer in medical discovery, than that of Dr. JOHN BULL. of Louisvike, Ky. His inicitable preparation of Saraaparilla, has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drag. His Compound Fectoral of Wild Cherky, has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Lozerges, in less than a year after thele introduction attained a reputation as wide-spread as the continent of North America. But the crowning glory of his life remains to be attained in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he does not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the bitters how offered to the pubic. That honor belongs to the native innabitants of Central America, to whom its victuse have been known for more than two hundred years. Armed with it the Indian bids defiance to the most deadly malaria, and handles without fear, the wost venonous serpens. It is a belief with them that while there is breath left in the body the Cedron is potent to cure, no matter what the disease may be.

While Dr. Bull is not prepared to indorse this extravagant pretension, he is nevertheless satisfied from a thorough examination of the evidence relating to its virtues, that as a remedy and preventive for all ciscuses arising from exposure, either to changes of weather and climate, or to the missmatte influences, it stands without a rival, and justly deserves the reputation it has so long cujoyed in Central America and the West Indies.

DYSPEPSIA, And its attendant train of symptoms, it acts more like a charm than a medicine. There is nothing in the whole range of the Materia Medica, that can for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

A full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the lith edition of the U. S. Dispensatory, pages 1337 and 1338. A series of experiments in which Dr. Dult has been or years encaged, has just been brought to a successful ermination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other approved tonles, he whole preserved in the best quality of copper-disilled Bourbon whisky, which he is confident has no qual in the world. He might turnish a volume of certificates, but the onblic have long since learned to estimate such things at their true value. The safest plan is, for every one to est for himself the virtues of a new medicine. Give the

For more than a year before his death he had indulged a hope of a change of heart, though he had not publicly united with God's peop. During different periods of his last llinees he spoke of that hope. His sufferings with typhoid fever lasted some seventeen days, and were very severe. It was after the fever had spent its force however, that most clearly he witnessed a good, a glorious confession of the truth as it is in Jes s, and his hope of a blessed immortality. During this interval of several hou so fundouted rationality, he also arranged his business matters with a calmness, clearness, minuteness, and comprehensiveness, truly wonderful. THE FIGHT IN KANAWHA VALLEY .- The Cincinnati Gazette says that the recent fight between the Federal forces under Gen. Averill and the rebels under Jones, in the Kanawha valley, is represented as very severe. Parties just arrived at Wheeling from the scene of action make the following statement:

Averill, with from 2,000 to 3,000 men, at tacked Jones' forces near White Sulphur and, after a hotly contested fight, Averill run out

THE FLEMINGSBURG RAID .- A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says that the reent of the Cincinnati Gazette says that the recent raid to that place was much more formidable and disastrous than at first reported. He states that the force (which was composed chiefly of East Tennessee rebels) numbered about one hundred men, and was commanded by J. T. Williams, an escaped prisoner, of the composition of the composi Morgan county. They robbed all the citizens they met in the streets, took a special deposit om the bank ($580) belonging to H. Wallegford, and from the sheriff they took $190 cash, a good horse worth $140, together with saddle and bridle. They also took with them one hundred and twenty five head of good horses, which is a severe loss to the itizens.

The correspondent makes complaint against the military authorities for allowing this band to escape unpurished, and says that unless there is a different disposition of the forces in that section other raids will follow.

Some time ago we mentioned the fact patch to the Cincinnati Commercial says: bat the office of the United States express company at St. Louis had been robbed of 660,000 by some persons unknown. General Buell, to Cincinnati, Undine, to Madison. Mercury, to Henderson. Havana, to Madison. Arizona, to Cincinnati. Shenango, to Memphis. The river of this point continues to fall and the water has become so low that there is not much I room for a further decline. In the canal, last even ing, there was not over 2 feet 2 inches water by the mark. From present indications we are of the opinion that it will be some time before we have a rise. The weather yesterday was clear and very Alab warm. Our dispatches from both Pittsburg and Cincin nati state that the river is falling. From Pittsburg to Cincinnati there is not over 28 inches of water, while from Cincinnati the depth in the channel cannot exceed 3% feet. From the lower Ohio we have nothing new to re port. The water continues to recede, and on the bars hence to Cairo there is but little over two feet water. The Cumberland is falling with only 17 inch water on Harpeth Shoals. A dispatch from Memphis states that the river thence to Cairo is six feet full, and the channel at wenty-five, and Phillips improving, and thence to Helena seven and a quarter feet and channel getting better. On account of the low water and dull times the Nannie has laid up at Jeffersonville.

The Major Anderson is the regular mail and pas enger packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving the city wharf at noon.

LAUNCH .- We are informed that Capt. Pink Varle's new steamer, the Fawn, will be launched from the ship-yard of Dan Richards on Thursday evening at 4 o'clock. When finished, she will be as trim a boat as we have ever seen. Dan Richards is well known in our city as a thorough business man, and all work intrusted to his care is faithfully performed. Dan is one of the bost boat builders a we have and all in want of good boats should give him a call.

Business on the wharf yesterday was very dull. The arrivals and departures were only moderate and they received and discharged but little freight. Loss of the Charlie Miller.—Some two weeks since the Charlie Miller got aground at Flint Island, when she stuck fast. The current of the river washed the sand from under both stern and bow and on Sunday last she broke completely in two. The boat will prove a total loss, the owners of ammunition and was compelled to fall being able to save nothing, with the exception of the machinery. The Charlie Miller was built some three years since and was valued at $16,000. She was owned by Capt. Pink Varble and others of this city, who had no insurance upon her. The new ferryboat building for the Jeffersonville Ferry Company will be finished and ready for service at an early day. The Diligent is being thoroughly repaired at St. Louis.

The St. Louis Democrat says that the new St. Louis and Keokuk packet Harry Johnson is closely approaching final completion. She will soon be scudding along the river towards Keokuk. The Hillman arrived at St. Louis on Sunday and reports meeting the Commercial at Island 10.

The Illinois is stationary, with two feet on the principal bars to Peorla.

In the Missouri, from the mouth to Leavenworth, there is three and half feet water, and slowly improving.

A new snd pleusant epoch in the Upper Mississippi trade! Free navigation between St. Louis and Saint Paul! The water has so increased that hereafter the fine side-wheel steamers of the Northera line will go the whole distance to St. Paul and return, as in former days. The new order of things will begin with the Northerner, Capt. P. A. Alford, which will leave to morrow at 4 o'clock P. W. for Dubuque, Stillwater and St. Paul.
